Introduction

About 150 different departments, agencies, commissions, boards, councils, crown corporations, and other organizations make up the Federal Government of Canada. Together, their programs and services concern all Canadians either directly or indirectly.

This brochure is one of a series published by Information Canada to let you know about those programs and services of which you may not be aware, but which nevertheless could be of particular benefit to you. Just as the federal government exists to provide services to Canadians, Information Canada exists to tell you about them.

While nearly all of the programs described are offered by the federal government, certain services administered by the provinces have been included. In each case the source of information is given.

And while the majority of these same programs are aimed at the individual, a few are aimed at small groups. (A separate Secretary of State department publication lists all available federal grants to groups and associations.)

For information on any federal program, service or publication, contact one of the Information Canada centres listed in the "Sources of Information" section.

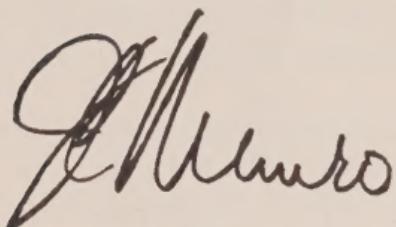

Edited from existing material, each brochure in the series deals with a different category of services, such as youth, immigration, citizenship, health and social services and senior citizens. To find specific information on the service in which you are interested, simply consult the table of contents at the beginning of the brochure. In other words, if you are faced with a given problem, the series is a practical guide to federal assistance or information.

It is not a duplication of material available through other government information sources, but is a new compilation of programs and services under headings that correspond to needs or activities, rather than department or government organization. For example, the brochure entitled "Youth" describes services offered by the Department of Finance, the Secretary of State, the National Research Council and the Department of Man-power and Immigration.

Subsequent editions of this series will detail possible changes and additions to existing programs and services. The format, and the number and nature of topics included are all subject to change in the light of comments from our readers. Please forward any remarks to Communication Services, Information Canada, 171 Slater St., Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0S9.

The facts and figures in this brochure, all verified by the organizations concerned, apply as at July 1, 1973*. However, by contacting the sources indicated you will be advised of current regulations that may apply at the time of your enquiry.

Arts and Culture

The Secretary of State Department is responsible for formulating federal policies for the development and diffusion of all forms of Canadian culture—the visual and performing arts, crafts, broadcasting, films, the field of audio-visuals, libraries, archives, galleries, museums, recording, publishing and copyright.

The department coordinates the cultural activities of federal departments and agencies and cooperates with public and private organizations with similar goals. A limited number of sustaining grants are awarded by the department to certain national organizations which provide a general service to artists and institutions in the cultural sector. Under this program, grants are also awarded to Canadian sections of international organizations to help defray the cost of conferences of a cultural nature held in Canada.

The department does not, however, award direct grants to the arts which call for artistic, aesthetic or professional judgment. This is the responsibility of other federal institutions, in particular, the Canada Council.

The following cultural agencies report to Parliament through the Secretary of State:

Canada Council

Canadian Film Development Corporation

National Film Board

National Museums of Canada

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

National Arts Centre

Public Archives

National Library

Canada Council

P.O. Box 1047

Ottawa, Ont. K1P 5V8

The Canada Council is an independent agency created by the federal government in 1957, to "foster and promote the study and enjoyment of, and the production of works in the arts, humanities and social sciences", mainly through a broad program of fellowships and grants. The council also shares responsibility for Canada's cultural relations with other countries; administers the Canadian Commission for Unesco* and ensures that certain programs financed by the federal government or private donors are carried out. Under the Canada Council Act, the council has the autonomy to determine its own policies and programs.

Aid to Artists

The programs described below are concerned only with direct assistance to artists. (It should be noted here however that the council offers substantial grants to artistic institutions—orchestras, theatre and ballet companies, art museums, etc.—thus indirectly benefiting many artists.)

Generally, the available grants are restricted to artists who already have some works to their credit and can claim to be professionals. Art critics, administrators of art institutions, and any other persons making vital contributions to the arts, can be included in this definition. For most categories of grants, the Canada Council distinguishes between artists who have been recognized for a number of years, because of the quality of their work (Class A), and artists just setting out on their careers (Class B).

Senior Arts Grant

Eligible: Class A artists.

Value: from $10 to $35 a day according to various circumstances, plus expenses, for a total of up to $10,000 a year, plus moving expenses if necessary.

Where it may be used: in Canada or a foreign country.

Length of tenure: at least three months.

Registration deadlines: October 15 or March 15.

Arts Grant

Eligible: Class B artists.

Value: up to $4,000, plus moving expenses if necessary.

Where it may be used: in Canada or a foreign country.

Length of tenure: from six to 12 months.

Registration deadline: October 15.

Short-Term Grant

Eligible: Class A and B artists.

Value: for Class A artists, $550 a month for Class B artists, $350 a month plus, in both cases, moving expenses if necessary.

Where it may be used: in Canada or a foreign country, as the case may be.

Length of tenure: up to three months.

Travel Grant (not to be confused with expenses for moving)

Eligible: Class A and B artists who wish to take advantage of an important opportunity to advance their careers.

Value: transportation expenses only.

Project Cost Grant

Eligible: Class A and B artists in need of financial aid to carry out a project.

Value: up to $2,000.

N.B.: For further information on the various grants available, please consult the brochure Aid to Artists, distributed by the Canada Council.

Aid to the Humanities and Social Sciences

Doctoral Fellowships

Eligible: Canadian scholars and, under certain conditions, immigrants who have completed a year of post-graduate study following a bachelor's degree with specialization, or the equivalent.

Value: from $3,500 to $5,500 for a year of studies, according to various circumstances, plus moving expenses if necessary.

Where it may be used: in a Canadian or foreign university.

Length of tenure: from four to 12 months.

Registration deadlines: candidates attending a Canadian university must apply in the autumn, the date to be determined by their particular university. Others must register no later than December 15.

Special M.A. Scholarships

Eligible: especially promising Canadian students planning on a university career. The applicant must first be proposed by a professor in a Canadian university. At the time of application the student must:

- be registered at a Canadian university in a bachelor's program with specialization, or the equivalent, and expect to receive his or her degree the coming June;
- intend to take post-graduate studies in a Canadian university the following year, on a full-time basis.

Value: $3,500, plus travelling expenses if necessary.

Length of tenure: up to 12 months.

Registration deadline: November 15.

Leave Fellowships

Eligible: Canadian university scholars (and immigrants fulfilling certain requirements) who want to take a leave of absence for further study or research in their area of specialization and who, upon receiving their fellowships,

(a) will be on partial salary and

(b) will have taught full-time in a Canadian university for at least five years since 1967.

Value: up to $8,000 for an applicant having the rank of associate professor or higher and up to $6,000 for others, plus moving expenses if necessary, and in certain cases, compensation for research expenses.

Length of tenure: from six to 12 months.

Where it may be used: Canada or a foreign country.

Registration deadline: October 1.

Research Fellowships

Eligible: holders of a post-graduate university degree who have taught humanities or social sciences at the post-secondary level, who have a definite research program in view and who have never had a previous opportunity to do research over an extended period of time (six months or more).

Value: up to $9,000, plus moving expenses if necessary and in certain cases, compensation for research expenses.

Length of tenure: from six to 12 months.

Where it may be used: in Canada or a foreign country.

Registration deadline: October 1.

N.B.: Further information on these four categories of grants may be found in the brochure entitled Aid to the Humanities and Social Sciences, published by the Canada Council.

Research Grants

The purpose of these grants is to encourage independent research in the field of humanities and social sciences. Although they are mainly to meet the needs of career scholars in Canadian universities, they are available to people doing research on their own if their work meets certain standards of scholarly merit. This type of grant covers only the direct cost of research work and does not include general expenses, or personal remuneration for the researchers. Research work done by contract, on order, or towards a degree is inadmissible for such a grant.

Value: actual expense of research work (within certain limits).

Length of tenure: 12, 18 or 24 months (and occasionally, less than 12 months).

For additional information, please consult the Guide to Applicants for Research Grants, published by the Canada Council.

Meetings and Exchanges

To encourage cultural exchange in the field of humanities and social sciences, the Canada Council offers:

- travel grants to Canadian scholars, enabling them to participate in international learned conferences abroad,
- grants to hold symposiums and study groups in Canada.

For additional information on this subject, please consult the brochure Aid to the Humanities and Social Sciences, published by the Canada Council.

Other Programs

Killam Awards

These awards are designed to help scholars of exceptional ability engage in research projects of far-reaching significance. The program includes:

- Senior Research Scholarships covering the entire field of the social sciences and humanities and interdisciplinary research linking any of the physical or biological sciences with any of the social sciences or humanities. These scholarships cover the expenses for research, moving, and if necessary, remuneration of the main researchers;
- Post-Doctoral Research Scholarships destined for young scholars doing interdisciplinary research, linking their sphere of specialization to another field ($9,000 plus certain supplements if needed);
- Three I. W. Killam Memorial Scholarships for research in science, engineering, and medicine (approximately $20,000). Candidates must be proposed by a university, hospital, or similar establishment.

For further information, send inquiries to: Killam Program, Canada Council.

Explorations

Under this program, the council makes grants available to individuals, associations, or organizations setting up, in Canada, projects calling for new dimensions of creativity and participation. Eligible activities could be, for example:

- research based on new methods of participation and communication in the fields of learning and arts;
- socio-cultural activities directed by competent personnel;
- cultural activities that relate to the general population;
- multidisciplinary work that includes both arts and sciences;
- work done to preserve cultural heritage (regional or national histories, memoirs, biographies, local customs, reflections of contemporary Canadian life, etc.) using any means of expression to carry it out.

Eligible: all Canadian citizens and organizations.

Value: varies according to project costs.

Length of tenure: up to 12 months.

For additional information, send enquiries to Explorations Program, Canada Council.

Grants to Canadian Scholars in Humanities and Social Sciences for Research in France

Eligible: Canadian university professors who plan to do post-doctoral research in a university or research institute in France.

Value: The Canada Council pays the Canada-France round trip transportation fee, economy class, for the researcher, and if necessary, his or her spouse. The recipient is paid a living allowance by the French authorities, at the rate of 2,500 francs if alone, or 3,000 if accompanied by a wife or husband.

Length of tenure: from three to six months.

Where research may be conducted: in France or in French territory.

For further information, please contact the Canada Council's Service for Grants and Scholarships.

Training Fellowships in the Social Sciences with Provision for Research in Latin America

These fellowships, offered in conjunction with the United States Foreign Area Fellowship Program, are for scholars in the social sciences who want to study Latin America in terms of their specialization.

Eligible: applicants must be Canadian citizens and, at the time of their request, be in the last year of a bachelor's degree program, with specialization.

Value: $250 a month plus compensation and if necessary, language study expenses.

Length of tenure: up to 15 months.

For further information, contact the Canada Council's Service for Grants and Scholarships.

Canadian Film Development Corporation

The objective of the CFDC, established in 1967, is to foster and promote the development of a feature film industry in Canada. Although its activities are directed mainly at production companies and corporations, it sometimes encourages filmmakers and film technicians on an individual basis.

Accordingly, from time to time, it invites young filmmakers and film technicians to take part in competitions, the regulations for which are explained in the media. Entries are judged according to merit. Grants are awarded to the winners to help them increase their skills.

For more information, write to the Canadian Film Development Corporation at 800 Place Victoria, Montreal 115, Que.

National Film Board

The National Film Board aims to produce and distribute films that illustrate Canadian life and culture. It also encourages the production of such films by private industry.

Individuals, groups and organizations may borrow films from NFB, either through their municipal library, or through the regional and district offices of the board.

National Museums of Canada

National Museums of Canada is a departmental corporation established by Act of Parliament in 1968 to group under one administration the activities of four national museums: National Gallery of Canada; National Museum of Man (includes the Canadian War Museum); National Museum of Natural Sciences and National Museum of Science and Technology (includes the National Aeronautical Collection).

In their role as both cultural and educational institutions, the museums aim "to demonstrate the products of nature and works of man, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada", in a way that will create interest and increase knowledge in this area throughout Canada.

To this end they do research, build collections, set up displays, issue publications, serve as an information medium, organize guided tours, show films, hold conferences, and put on travelling exhibitions. To enable as many Canadians as possible to see their collections, the museums lend displays, etc. to various institutions across Canada.

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

Head Office
1500 Bronson Ave.
Ottawa, Ont. K1G 3J5

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation ensures a national broadcasting service offering a balance of information and entertainment programs to appeal to a variety of tastes. Its radio and television facilities extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific and to the Arctic Circle.

The CBC operates six major national networks: two television networks, one English and one French; two AM radio networks, one English and one French; a number of FM radio stations in major cities and a multilingual service (English, French, Indian and Eskimo) providing medium and shortwave broadcasting to the Canadian North. The main production centre for the English networks is in Toronto, and for the French networks, in Montreal, with regional centres across the country.

National Arts Centre
Confederation Square
Ottawa, Ont. K1P 5W1

Set up in 1966, the National Arts Centre Corporation is charged with encouraging the performing arts in the national capital region and with supporting the efforts of the Canada Council to promote the arts throughout the country.

The centre itself houses an Opera (2,300 seats), a Theatre (800 seats), a Studio (300 seats) and a Salon (120 seats) in which a wide variety of performances are given. Also found within the centre are two restaurants and underground parking space for more than 900 cars.

The NAC has its own 45-member orchestra under the direction of Mario Bernardi and its own Theatre Department which puts on both English and French productions.

NAC facilities can be rented for receptions, meetings, recitals, etc.

Public Archives

395 Wellington St.
Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0N3

Founded in 1872, the Public Archives assembles and makes available for public use a vast collection of material relating to the history of Canada.

In addition to public documents and records, it also has many personal documents such as correspondence between statesmen and other well-known citizens; the country's largest map collection; many paintings, prints, water colours and photographs, as well as films and recordings about Canada.

The archives material must be consulted on the spot. Therefore, researchers have 24-hour access to its study rooms and reproduction of documents is possible at a small charge. The archives will also supply librairies with microfilmed manuscripts.

Anyone wishing to do so, may entrust to the archives personal, family, or business documents (correspondence, diaries, photos, transparencies, etc.). The documents will be kept confidential if the owner wishes. Restored and preserved for posterity, these documents will serve as original study material for historians.

The archives answers all requests for information concerning the documents under its care.

The National Library

395 Wellington St.

Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0N4

The National Library was founded in 1953. Its collection is primarily in the field of the humanities and the social sciences, with special emphasis on Canada. Publications can be consulted in the library's reading rooms or borrowed on interlibrary loan. The National Library also:

- publishes the national bibliography Canadiana, a monthly list of Canadian publications, works of Canadian authors, and books about Canada. Canadian sound recordings, films, film strips and microforms are included in the list;
- maintains the Canadian Union Catalogue, a record of the holdings of more than 300 libraries. Using this catalogue the National Library helps other libraries locate specific books they wish to borrow on interlibrary loan for their customers. More than 100,000 enquiries were received in 1971, more than 80 per cent of these from within Canada.
- compiles bibliographies and reading lists, some of which are published.

In addition to records and tapes, the Music Division collects Canadian books, periodicals, and sheet music. The Newspaper Room has extensive files of historical interest, a comprehensive subscription list of Canadian ethnic papers in many languages, and a representative collection of current Canadian newspapers.

Recreation

The federal government sponsors a variety of recreational programs and services designed to enhance the leisure activities of Canadians—from our national parks, the responsibility of the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, to Recreation Canada and Sport Canada, two special programs set up by the Department of National Health and Welfare.

National Parks

Canada now has 28 national parks, created in the public interest to preserve some of the country's more outstanding scenic regions and interesting wild and plant life species in a natural state.

Services available to park visitors include hotels, campgrounds and picnic areas, as well as nature study programs.

Recreation Canada

Recreation Canada encourages citizens of all ages to take part in some kind of physical activity. This organization is especially preoccupied with the growing importance of recreation in a post-industrial society.

Recreation Canada presents trophies such as the "Canadian Physical Fitness Award" to the most deserving young athletes participating in competitions involving several athletic disciplines.

Sports

Assistance to national sports groups

Sport Canada encourages Canadian athletes to achieve greater degrees of excellence by giving financial assistance to national sports groups. These funds go towards organizing national championships and sending Canadian athletes to international competitions.

Grants to student athletes

Sport Canada also awards grants to help outstanding young athletes continue both their educational and sports careers. This program is open to students from high schools, community colleges, technical institutions and universities. More information is available from educational institutions throughout Canada, from sport governing bodies, from provincial directors of sport or from:

Sources of Information

To make it easier for Canadians to get information about the federal government, Information Canada has set up a network of Information Canada Centres. These combine the functions of government bookstore and enquiry facility, sometimes under one roof, sometimes in two locations. To ask a question about federal government administration, programs or services contact one of these centres in person, by telephone or by letter. Enquiries are either answered on the spot or referred to the most appropriate government information services. Thousands of departmental publications—including some free ones—are available through the Information Canada Centres, and through the agency's central mail order service in Ottawa.
